VALKYRIE DOES NOT START

New York Pilot Boat Gets in Her Way.

PROTEST FLAG SET AND SAILS LOWERED.

Lord Dunraven Has Objected to the New York Course and Demanded That the Race Be Sailed Over Water That Can Be Kept Free From Excursion Boats.

New York, Sept. 13.—There was no yacht race today. Valkyrie did not start.

At 10:22 both yachts were cruising about near Highlands light ship. There was an eighteen-mile wind and the haze made it hard to see the judges' boat. Valkyrie had only her jib and mainsail up, a fact which caused much conjecture.

The preparatory gun was followed instantly by the breaking out of a huge spinnaker on Defender. Valkyrie approached the line with an additional sail, then suddenly stood to the south, going about on the starboard tack. A moment later she hoisted a protest flag and headed back for the judges' stand.

When it was seen that Valkyrie had withdrawn a tug boat took her in tow. On the press boat it appeared as if Pilot Boat No. 10, the Fanny Williams, had stood directly in her way as she headed for the starting line.

Defender kept on her course alone. After a few minutes the judge's boat started after her. The excursion fleet turned, however, and went in with Valkyrie.

At 12:20 a dispatch from Lookout Point, Long Island, stated that Defender was off Long Branch, going to the stake boat.

Defender finished at 4:01:09.

Mr. Glennie, Lord Dunraven's representative, said Lord Dunraven did not think a fair course could be obtained off New York and asked the committee to provide a course that could be kept clear. He suggested Marblehead or some place distant from New York. No reply was received from the committee and he did not intend to race today. In consequence a second knotty point is left for settlement. The regatta committee of the New York Yacht Club had yesterday afternoon bulletined its decision on Tuesday's race sustaining the protest of the Defender, and giving her a technical victory. This bulletin was soon posted in every club in the city, upon the boards of every daily paper, and in every resort where lovers of sports congregate, and in no place was it received with enthusiasm. There was a general feeling that, while the Valkyrie III's victory was of questionable nature, and should not be counted, the Defender should not retain the cup by means of technicalities. Before the committee reached its decision it took the testimony of Lord Dunraven, C. Oliver Iselin, and others on board the contesting yachts.

Lord Dunraven, in a sportsmanlike way said last night: "I shall sail the race tomorrow as a sportsman, because I have no occasion to do otherwise. I believe in the ability and honesty of the regatta committee of the New York Yacht Club. I believe that no effort has been made to influence its decision.

I believe the members thereof to be gentlemen and yachtsmen. I do not expect that Mr. Iselin will offer a chance for a recall or anything of that sort. While it is very certain that the America's cup is lost by reason of my yacht's racing showing, it is not so certain that at some time the cup may not be carried across the Atlantic."

It is believed by many viewers of the situation at the start of Tuesday's race that the Valkyrie III. was not the boat at fault, but that the Defender was entirely to blame. Ex-Commodore James G. Smith, of the New York Yacht Club, said: "I do not believe that the foul was incurred by the Valkyrie III., or that the protest was deserved. It looked to me like another occasion of the Vigilant-Defender position." At an impromptu conference it was found that there were others whose opinions did not differ from that of ex-Commodore Smith.

When asked if he would consent to resail the race Mr. Iselin said: "I do not know why I should do anything like this. It would not be sportsmanlike for me to give up any advantage which had been officially awarded me under such a state of circumstances. I will not say a thing for publication. I do not believe that the press has any right to notice this sort of politics." The New York press is unanimous in condemnation of the decision of the committee.

SENSATION AMONG MILLERS.

New Rule Will Cause Heavy Loss to Innocent Purchasers.

St. Louis, Mo., Sept. 12.—A fight is developing among the handlers of wheat in St. Louis, which promises to create a sensation in all parts of the country. After several years' effort, St. Louis commission houses last year overcame the opposition of millers and exporters and passed a rule on the Merchants' Exchange, allowing the delivery of No. 2 hard winter wheat on No. 2 red wheat contracts for future delivery. This rule went into effect July 1, 1895. Winter wheat millers are, as a rule, only prepared to grind soft winter wheat. This year with a great scarcity of winter wheat, the shortage being estimated at nearly 100,000,000 bushels, as compared with last year, and the quality being unusually poor, millers in Illinois, Missouri, Kentucky and Tennessee, who have been unable to obtain all the good winter wheat in their own sections and see where the exhaustion of such wheat is near at hand, are coming to St. Louis for their supplies. They have bought innocently, both for September and December delivery, expecting that when delivered they would get soft winter wheat. Under the rule and in view of the lower price now asked for hard wheat, the latter will be delivered to them.

WILL BE BURIED AS SOLDIERS.

Victims of the Cannon Explosion in Louisville—More of the Details.

Louisville, Ky., Sept. 12.—The city has been stirred by the horror of yesterday's caisson explosion. The militiamen who were in charge of the gun and caisson were literally torn to fragments. The mangled body of one man was found on the steps of a house 300 feet away. Limbs severed from the body, portions of human remains and blood-stained shreds of clothing were scattered all over the neighborhood. Shattered, disjointed legs and arms were carried over three-story buildings. For the moment following the explosion there was an actual rain of human blood and mangled human flesh. So utterly were some of the bodies removed from the semblance of human shape that it was necessary to collect the bleeding fragments with shovels.

The concussion was so great that the buildings even at that distance were shaken, and in several of the houses around windows were shattered. In a few minutes everyone in the neighborhood was out. Many of the women fainted as soon as they came out, the sight was so horrible.

It is doubtful if anything ever before occurred in this region that has caused such widespread sorrow. The regiment to which the young men belonged is made up of the pick and flower of Louisville. Many of the members are society leaders and are of wealthy families. Governor John Young Brown, who was stopping with Major George B. Easton, was asleep in bed. The explosion stunned him and it was some time before he could realize what had happened. All the furniture in the hall was damaged by the explosion. The concussion shook all the leaves off a tree in the front yard.

The cause of the explosion has not yet been ascertained. The battery was just starting from its encampment for Phoenix Hill, where it was intended to fire a salute of forty guns. The order to march had just been given by Captain Castleman. The men were all in their places, when suddenly a fearful roar and blinding dash told that something awful had happened. The soldiers with the gun never knew of the accident. To them death came in horrible form before their senses could realize what had befallen. It was said that just before the explosion one of the men was seen near the caisson smoking. Captain Castleman denies this, and says that the explosion is inexplicable.

The unfortunate militia men who lost their lives by the explosion of the caisson will be buried with military honors to-morrow afternoon. Sergeant Cohn and Private Hobbs, the two men who were injured, are doing well.

THE HINSHAW CASE.

State Continues Its Evidence Against the Prisoner.

Danville, Ind., Sept. 12.—Witnesses for the State yesterday continued to tell what was first seen at the Hinshaw home when several of his nearest neighbors reached him after having been awakened by the report of a revolver. William East testified that he, with several others, looked for tracks, but found none, though there was nearly a quarter of an inch of snow. The trousers were found with snow on them. None of the witnesses have yet testified there was any sign of scuffling, either inside or outside of the house. Miss Eva Worrell was near within five seconds after the pistol report was heard and did not see anyone in sight, though she could see in every direction. Interest in the trial continues and the end will hardly be reached in three weeks.

NO GLASS COMBINE LIKELY.

Pittsburg, Pa., Sept. 12.—The Pittsburg window-glass manufacturers, who have organized a trust, met yesterday. According to the report of Secretary Loeffler nothing was done. The Indiana and other western manufacturers who refuse to go into the combine unless the orders are equally divided were not represented. Mr. Loeffler said another meeting will be held in Chicago soon. Unless the Pittsburg manufacturers make concessions the combine will in all probability soon go to pieces.

WILL ASK FOR PENSIONS.

New York, Sept. 12.—President W. R. Plumb, of Chicago, called to order the meeting of Military Telegraphers of the United States at the Broadway Central Hotel yesterday. The committee on congressional action reported that during the coming session of Congress measures should be taken to secure pensions for those who were entitled to them. Mr. Plumb was re-elected president.

ST. JOSEPH, MO., SEPT. 12.—DEPUTY UNITED STATES MARSHALS SMITH AND MILLER YESTERDAY CAPTURED THE LEADERS OF A DANGEROUS GANG OF COUNTERFEITERS.

The men under arrest are Ransome Smith, an old offender, who has served a term in prison for the crime, and Henry J. Green, a well-to-do farmer living three miles east of this city, on whose place the counterfeiting was done. Their work was clever, and during the past six months thousands of dollars of the spurious coin have been passed in this city and adjoining points. Officers are after five other members of the gang.

VETERANS PARADE IN BLUE AND GRAY

THE EVENT OF YESTERDAY AT LOUISVILLE.

The Line Becoming Sadly Thinner at Each Successive Encampment—The Entire City Turns Out To Welcome Its Northern Visitors in True Kentucky Style.

Louisville, Ky., Sept. 12.—After all the demonstrations of the week, the parade yesterday was the event of the twenty-ninth annual encampment of the Grand Army of the Republic. It has been of all former encampments. The air was full of patriotic music and the streets were carnivals of richness in designs and profusion of the red, white and blue. Along miles of bunting and amid hundreds of thousands of cheering citizens the comrades once more marched on southern soil.

The veterans showed the weight of years and the effects of service while marching. It was the general remark that there were never so many old, lame and feeble men in line, but they proudly kept step and "tramped, tramped, tramped," just as if they were boys still, "marching through Georgia." None of the old union generals about whom they gathered so fondly at former encampments, and whose carriages they cheered so lustily in former parades, were here. Their portraits were seen along the line of march, but they are bivouacking where most of the comrades will soon join them. And in that silent majority Grant, Lee, Sherman, Johnson, Sheridan, Jackson and other leaders could have been no more at peace or have no more good will to man than was felt and sincerely expressed here, amid scenes that beggar all descriptions and wipe out the last vestiges of sectional feeling.

Under a proclamation of the mayor, the streets were, where the division formed and the entire line of march, cleared of everything, while the Louisville legion, the cadets and Kentucky national guard patrolled and there was no delay. Mounted police first cleared the way. The parade was headed in front of the first division, by two distinguished ex-confederates on horseback, Capt. John H. Weller and Capt. William H. Harrison. Capt. Weller carried a very large flag and the stars and stripes were proudly borne by him. Capt. Harrison carried a very large white banner of peace mounted on a staff like the stars and stripes carried by his confederate comrade. The two flags were alike in every respect except in the colors, one being all pure white. In place of the eagle on the top of the staff the white banner had a dove carrying an olive twig, designating peace and good-will. Following these new participants, who were the striking feature of the parade, the divisions lined up as follows:

Drum corps—Louisville Legion. Grand Army Band of Canton, Ohio. Colonel Henry S. Cohn, chairman committee on parade and review. Thomas Satterwhite, Jr., and Captain C. E. Hordstrom, adjutants. Special citizen aids. Citizens' committee on parade and review, 100 members. Carriage No. 1—The Governor of Kentucky and staff. Carriage 2—The mayors of Louisville, New Albany and Jeffersonville, and Colonel Thomas H. Sherley. President citizens' committee, the board of managers and invited guests; Chicago Military Band.

Columbia Post of Chicago as Grand Army escort to commander-in-chief. Commander-in-chief General Thomas G. Lawler and staff.

Members of the council of administration, aid-de-camp to commander-in-chief.

First grand division—Illinois, Wisconsin and Pennsylvania.

Second grand division—Ohio and New York.

Third grand division—Connecticut, Massachusetts, New Jersey, Maine, California, Rhode Island, New Hampshire, Vermont, Potomac, Virginia and North Carolina.

Fourth grand division—Maryland, Nebraska, Michigan, Iowa and Indiana.

Fifth grand division—Colorado, Kansas, Delaware, Minnesota, Missouri and Oregon.

Sixth grand division—West Virginia, South Dakota, Washington and Alaska.

Seventh grand division—Arkansas, New Mexico, Utah and Tennessee.

Eighth grand division—Louisiana, Mississippi, Florida, Montana, Texas and Idaho.

Ninth grand division—Arizona, Georgia, Alabama, North Dakota, Oklahoma and Indian Territory.

Tenth grand division—Kentucky and battle-fields of Kentucky regiments in charge of guard of honor.

COUNTERFEITERS CAPTURED.

St. Joseph, Mo., Sept. 12.—Deputy United States Marshals Smith and Miller yesterday captured the leaders of a dangerous gang of counterfeiters.

FLOUR MILL BURNS WITH $50,000 LOSS

WEST SHORE OF GREEN BAY ALL AFIRE.

Pine Regions of the Michigamme and Paint Rivers Are Being Swept Clean—Milwaukee Has One of the Hottest Days of the Season—Dry Weather Causes Loss.

Bloomington, Sept. 12.—The Zenith flouring mill burned this morning. The loss is fifty thousand dollars.

Green Bay, Wis., Sept. 12.—The west shore of Green Bay for thirty miles is lined with flames, which are sweeping over the immense marshes that stretch from this city to Oconto. Reports from Casco Junction, on the Keweenaw, Green Bay and Western road, are to the effect that forest fires are burning up both sides of the track between that point and Clyde. The fires cover a territory of two miles wide and are between two bridges which are threatened.

Marinette, Wis., Sept. 12.—Reports from the north say that the pine region of the Michigamme and Paint Rivers are being swept by the flames.

SUNSTROKE AT ROCKFORD.

Rockford, Ill., Sept. 12.—The heat here for the past two days has been the most intense on record in the section for September, the thermometer ranging close to 100 above in the shade. One case of sunstroke occurred yesterday.

HOG CHOLERA THINS HERDS IN TIFFANY

PROMPT SALES THE ONLY REMEDY.

Man's Hand Almost Lopped Off While Cutting Tobacco—Seventy Loads of Stock Shipped From Magnolia—Charles Hallett's Horse Drops Dead.

—Wells Go Dry.

The hog cholera is still depleting the herds around Tiffany. A correspondent says: "Nearly all those farmers whose hogs have escaped are disposing of them as fast as they can, as after the infection has reached a herd buyers refuse to touch them at any price. By selling off all healthy hogs fit for market, farmers will lessen the danger of disease and escape severe pecuniary loss. Several years ago the same disease struck this section and cost the writer over $1,000 which might have been saved by a prompt sale when the disease first appeared in the neighborhood. Burying or burning one hundred and twenty-five dead porkers is not a profitable business. Farmers get rid of your hogs if the hog plague is in your vicinity, and don't wait until it appears in your herds. All cures, all preventives seem to fail here. Jacob Schenck claims to have saved his flock by the use of saltwater and carbolic acid. The writer tried the same remedy years ago with no success. In fact, some $30 spent in all sorts of nostrums did not save a single hog."

Hand Almost Lopped Off.

Mike Tracy while harvesting tobacco at D. Casey's in Porter was accidentally struck with a tobacco ax, nearly severing a hand. The injured man was taken to Edgerton where medical aid attended him. The injury will lay him up for a long time. Most of tobacco around Porter is being harvested.

Seventy Loads of Stock Shipped

On Monday the ninth there was shipped from Tiffany one car load of cattle, three car loads of hogs, one of straw, one of barley and about 45,000 pounds of butter. Some sixty or seventy teams brought in the live stock and other articles, thirty of which came from Emerald Grove with hogs. E. M. Ransom shipped the cattle—a fine lot.

Corn Binders Are at Work

Threshing is about finished around Tiffany and corn cutting is progressing. Many corn binders are at work. The McCormick and Deering are the kinds in use and do satisfactory work. Auctions are in order and the bill poster is busy. Farms for rent are in great demand in this section despite low prices.

Baby Party a Novelty.

Miss Emma Bates of Porter gave a novel as well as enjoyable party, one afternoon recently. It was a baby party. The babies invited were all under one year old and they and their mothers were most admirably entertained.

Some Oppose The Bridge.

A notice in The Gazette of last week states "that the fourth of a series of special "bridge meeting" now being conducted by the Tiffany creamery Co. September 17, 1893 at 9 o'clock." A correspondent says: "The fact that such a meeting is advertised according to law to be held at that time and place is correct, but the statement that the Tiffany Creamery Co. has anything to do with it in anyway is a 'householder' well knows. The company is composed of some fifty stock holders a portion of whom are opposed to the bridge and no action has been taken by the company in any way."

Horse Dropped Dead.

While Charles Hallett of Indian Ford, was half a mile from home on his way from Stoughton, one of his horses dropped dead.

Porter Wells Go Dry.

Owing to the protracted drought, wells in Porter are drying up.

New Seats in a School.

The Wells school house is being treated to a new floor, and some fine patent seats are being put in.

Buried by Modern Woodmen.

Eugene Hollister, who died at the home of W. M. Keener in the town of La Prairie, September 7, in his twenty-second year, was the last candidate to be initiated into Camp 1375, M. W. A. and the first to die in three years out of a hundred members. He was a steady, industrious young man and highly respected. The funeral services were held on the 8th, under the supervision of the Woodman of Camp 1375 who attended in a body.

Rock County Personals.

Miss L. CHEESBRO, of Porter, has been a sufferer for the past week with a felon on her finger.

Mrs. SAVAGE, of Cooksville, has been visiting her daughter, Mrs. Brown, teacher of the Indian Ford school.

WILL VALE, of Porter, now rides a new whee.

Miss ELLA KEALY, of Burr-oak, is spending a few weeks in Porter.

FRED FRUSHEC, of Porter, goes to Valparaiso again this week to attend school. He hopes to finish the course.

JOHN SWEENEY, of Janesville, has been rustication with Porter friends.

S. WATSON, of Janesville, was a Porter caller on Sunday. He took charge of a funeral at Portville.

Mr. and Mrs. F. Cheesbro, of Porter, spent a few days in Oregon the first of the week.

Miss ELLA KELLER, of Edgerton, and Mrs. Peter McCann, have been visitors at J. L. Chamberlain's, Indian Ford.

JAMES HAGGART, of Janesville, is visiting relatives in Tiffany.

MRS. C. S. THOMAS, of Indian Ford, has returned home after a two weeks' visit with her daughter, Mrs. C. Hutton, of Milwaukee.

MR. BROWN, of Center, was a caller at R. Calls, in Indian Ford.

LUCKY ESCAPES FROM INJURY.

THE FALL SHOOTING HAS MANY CHARMs

POINTS OF MUCH INTEREST TO SPORTSMEN.

How Mallards Are Bagged—Blue Bill Shooting in the Fall—Jack Snipe Shooting—Prairie Chickens and Partridges Furnish Business for Ammunition Dealers.

Koshkonong has never been as low as this year and shooting has not been good. On the 20th of last month the open season for the hunting of small game in this state went into effect and many hunters of this city, as a consequence, took their way to the marshes but most of them returned with much disappointment. While it was generally thought that there were considerable mallard, teal and wood duck abounding in the marshes, such did not however, prove to be the case and as a consequence, sporting men are now awaiting teal shooting, which invariably comes with the first frosts, and the fall mallard shooting.

Over Decoys.

Shooting blue bills over decoys, while the ice is freezing in the bays and the thermometer is way down below zero, is another method which is perhaps more fascinating than any other way of bagging game. While this is contrary to law, invites rheumatism and makes one's teeth rattle like a snare drum, it is nevertheless practiced by every hunter.

And with it also comes excitement and fun almost without limit, providing the ducks are plentiful. When this manner of hunting is practiced, blinds are built by the hunters, and the decoys are placed in the water about fifty or sixty feet from the blind, in which the hunter secretes himself. When the ducks swoop down over and light into the decoys, the gunners slowly arise from their carefully prepared hiding places and blaze away. Invariably, unless the aim of the hunter has not been well directed, several ducks are killed. In many instances the ducks are not killed outright and then more excitement ensues. Canoes are brought into requisition and the cripples are pursued, some time for a mile or so and then not bagged, for they are expert divers and exceedingly hard to shoot upon the water, and what hunter has not returned from chasing one of these wounded birds a long distance, lame and sore, unrewarded.

How Mallards Are Killed.

Almost every man who goes in for the sport nowadays knows that there is not much use to go after ducks until a good, heavy frost has set in and brought down some of the green-winged teal and other later birds, which do not arrive here until the frost is nipping the rice, and covering the water with its seed. There will perhaps be some good bags made during the next few weeks of native teal and wood duck from the rice beds which they have not as yet foraged, but what is perhaps considered the best shooting for the hunter and for which he will endure any hardship to secure is the fall mallard shooting. This shooting lasts until the small pools in the marsh are frozen over, and the ducks are unable to feed in them. As night approaches, the hunter sets a good pool or slough, at which he lays quietly under cover, blowing away at his duck call which is calculated to deceive the wary mallard and bring it within the reach of his gun. Some times the ducks do not need coaxing or deception at all, and when they are about to alight onto some favorite feeding ground the hunter is enabled to get good shooting. Formerly it was exceedingly hard and caused much work and exhaustion on the part of the hunter to get near these mallard holes, as they are located far back in the soft and muddy marshes, but now, by the use of the "skee," a modern appliance, they are enabled to walk all over the marshes with comparative ease.

Jack Snipes.

Jack snipe hunting is another fascinating sport for the hunter, and with the advent of cold weather these smaller birds will arrive in large numbers from their northern homes. A man who is not an expert with the shot gun is entirely out of place hunting these fleet-winged and gamey little birds. Many hunters aver that this sport surpasses all others in excitement and interest, and a day's hunt on the edge of the marsh in quest of these birds is eagerly sought by them.

Upland Shooting.

Field hunting, that is for prairie chickens, partridges, plover and other upland birds is reported to have been quite good, as Sheriff Appleby and Dr. E. D. Roberts can bear witness, and several good strings have been reported to have been bagged. Good hunting, in its strict meaning, is practically a thing of the past in this vicinity, and even members of the different clubs who have preserves near the city have found that investing in game preserves is a costly experiment which is not attended by the results which they so dearly desire. It is interesting to listen to the stories told by the old hunters of thirty or forty years ago, and then contrast these conditions with the ones of today. They tell of flocks that fairly darkened the earth as they passed and made a deafening roar, but as the country gradually became settled and civilization was spread, the game soon diminished, until today there is comparatively little.

THEY HAD OIL LAMPS IN PLENTY

A. L. Kavelage Hazards a Prediction at Mackinac Island.

A. L. Kavelage and F. H. Jackman are now rustication in that northern region where hay fever is here unknown, and where all the hotels are lighted with lamps.

"I wonder if we are to have a light," said Mr. Jackman as they ascended the hotel stairs, the clerk having said nothing about illuminations.

"I guess so," said Mr. Kavelage.

Just then they reached the head of the stairs and beheld a table on which there stood twenty-seven lamps with the sign "Take one" affixed.

"Aha! Mr. Jackman," quoth Mr. Kavelage in a stage whisper: "We now have lamps to burn!"

Whereat they both scratched matches, and the bell boy fell down stairs in a faint.

FREE PUNK STICKS FOR WILLIE BOYS

CIGARETTE WAR IS WORKING THIS WAY.

Janesville Breezes Will Discount the Zephyrs From Araby, the Blest, if the Threatened Cuts Are Made—Plug Tobacco Manufacturers Have Their Blood Up.

Think what a boon free cigarettes would be to the Willie-boys in Janesville! So glowing a prospect may not materialize but a big cut in prices is possible. It comes from the war between the manufacturers of the trust and the anti-trust goods. The trust has threatened to flood the west with cigarettes and crush out its rival.

It is said while the anti-trust people are said to be contemplating a plug-tobacco crusade in the east.

This last threat resulted in an important meeting of plug tobacco people in New York. The plug men are at odds with the American Tobacco Company, and assert that the company has encroached on their territory by the manufacture of plug tobacco. One threat of the plug tobacco manufacturers is that they will manufacture cigarettes and give them away to the handlers of plug tobacco.

The fight is attracting the particular interest of the wholesalers and the jobbers in the trade.

After the meeting H. J. Drummond said there had been a general discussion at the meeting as to the advisability of the manufacture of cigarettes, and that the majority of those present were in favor of the move. "But," added Mr. Drummond, "the manufacturers of

A PARTY SPLIT.

How do western democrats feel about Bland's assurance that next year the party will split and western men will follow the free silver banner? Bland's idea, of course, is that the vote in congress did not represent the party. Perhaps not at that time, but it is different as to the present. The campaign of education in his party started by the president has been kept up, and the changes of base which have been made in the past year or two are probably sincere and permanent. Mr. Bland, however, thinks the conflict is still "on." The democracy is a house divided against itself, he believes, and if his will prevails there will be a party for silver and a party against silver before the national canvass begins.

UNDER OTHER LAWS—WHAT?

Steel rails went up four dollars a ton in Pittsburgh yesterday. The condition of the iron and steel industry is usually regarded as a safe criterion of general business conditions, and if it may be so regarded now it certainly shows the situation to be very satisfactory. At any rate that industry has rarely experienced a higher degree of activity and prosperity than it is now realizing and this means a great deal for the labor of the country. It may be pertinent to ask whether if democratic policy as embodied in the Wilson bill had been carried out there would now be this activity in the American iron and steel industry? Very likely not and instead the British industry would be thriving, whereas it is considerably depressed.

Twenty of the leading merchants of Chicago who have been interviewed on the subject of the coming fall trade give a decidedly hopeful view of the business situation. The report of continued improvement is unanimous and the best season since 1890 is looked for. Some of dealers like those in iron and steel, report a boom already in sight.

Farms in England are selling for a fourth of the price they commanded twenty years ago. Not long since in that country a farm of 639 acres, with homestead, barns and seven modern cottages, brought but $28,500 though considered worth $100,000 in 1890. Free trade doesn't seem to be such a boon for farmers, after all.

About the only thing the treasury officials are doing to maintain the gold reserve is to "preserve their usual reticence on the subject." That reserve is in the hands of J. Pierpont Morgan and providence and over against it is the Wilson-Gorman tariff law that creates a fresh deficit each month.

Hog cholera and Grim Death are counted about the same in Tiffany. A correspondent whose experience gives him the right to speak, says the only remedy is to sell your herd as soon as cholera gets in the neighborhood. In other words: "Let the other man walk the floor."

Will President Cleveland be under the humiliating necessity of selling more bonds when the syndicate finishes its task? It begins to look so. The pitiful plight of the treasury when the country at large is so prosperous tells what sort of a law the Wilson-Gorman tariff measure is.

Spain would stand better in the Cuban matter if she hadn't used Cuba as a mere means of income for herself, imposing all sorts of burdens upon the land. The patriots have learned that no reliance is to be placed upon her profession of a desire to deal more leniently or more justly.

Brave man, that Senator Cockrell, to declare that Mr. Cleveland is really out after a third term, and that a third term is something he can't have. Senator Cockrell will not get much from the administration pie pantry this winter.

C. K. Miltimore placed the lives of two children to his credit when he stopped that runaway at the fair. This thought will be worth more to him, modest though he is, than any number of medals.

German smiles when Wilson says he is satisfied with the workings of his tariff bill. It wasn't very long ago since the democrats called the Wilson bill, as amended by Gorman, a "measure of perfidy and dishonesty."

The difference between the partisan conditions a year before the presidential election, now, and those which prevailed that length of time before 1892 are marked and significant.

When 10,000 people attend an American base ball game in London, the House of Lords may well shiver and the Prince of Wales feel for his official head.

editor of the Louisville Courier-Journal, then made the welcoming address in behalf of the citizens' committee. General Lawler followed him. Before the General came upon the platform he was addressed by Mayor Tyler, who, in a short informal speech, presented him with the keys of the city. Loud and prolonged applause greeted General Lawler when he came forward. Many other campfires were held, and all were well attended. Some cases of sunstroke and minor casualties are reported.

Fire in a Kansas Town.

Wichita, Kas., Sept. 12.—Word was received here at 11 o'clock last night that a fire is raging in Conway Springs, Sumner County, and that the entire city will probably be consumed. A stiff wind is blowing, and half the business center, including the postoffice, is already gone. Conway Springs is a town of about 1,200 inhabitants, principally railroad men, and there is comparatively no fire protection. The town consists of light frame houses that cannot stand long before a fire, such as now raging.

How Many Did They Eat?

"Can you tell me," said Will to Bob, "how many apples Adam and Eve ate in the Garden of Eden?"

"That's a chestnut!" Bob answered. "Eve ate one, and Adam ate, too; that makes three."

"You don't add correctly, Bob. The total is 163."

How do you make that out?"

"Why, as you said, Eve ate one (81) and Adam ate, too (82). Add 81 and 82 together and you get 163, don't you?"

Bob thought a moment and exclaimed:

"I guess they ate more, after all. Eve ate for one (81), and Adam ate, too (82); total, 923."

"Oh, I can do better than that," said Will. "Eve, for one, ate one (4,181), and Adam, too, ate one (281). That makes a total of 4,362. Can you beat that?"

"Yes, indeed! How is this? Eve ate one, for one (8,111), and Adam ate one, too (812). That is a total of 8,953. Now it's your turn."

"I'll quit," said Will. "They must have eaten the whole crop."

THE TRIPLE CALL-DOWN.

How a Bored Irishman Stoned a Crowd of Genials.

There were four of them, as genial, good-natured, whole-souled retailers of old wives' tales as ever got together in the smoking compartment of a sleeping car. They had all fed well in the dinner and settled down with the anticipation of enjoying a long evening of yarn swapping. They spread themselves over as many of the seats of the smoker as they could cover, and crowded into a corner, a large round-faced, jolly-looking Irishman, who was enjoying his after-dinner cigar. Somehow he wasn't amused by the stories. The narrators spread themselves, but they couldn't phase him, and the bored expression on his face grew in intensity as the stories went on. The stories were not funny. Once in a while there was a gleam of humor, but for the most part they were commonplace or vulgar. But they seemed irresistibly humorous to the four, who pelted their thighs and wheezed and chuckled and roared as each in turn finished his yarn.

At last the big Irishman could endure it no longer, and he broke in with: "That reminds me of a farmer who caught three boys stealing apples in his orchard."

The original four turned toward him with a look of expectant triumph, ready to yell at the first sign of conclusion.

"He chased them," went on the Irishman, "and they all ran up a tree. 'Come down,' said the farmer, but they wouldn't."

"Will ye come down for once?" asked the farmer.

"We will not," answered the boys.

"Will ye come down for twice?"

"We will not."

"Will ye come down for three times?"

"So they all come down."

And with that the big Irishman winked at the only other man in the compartment who was not of the story-telling crowd. The yarn spinners laughed uproariously for a second or two and then a light went up, as the Germans say, and they stopped suddenly. They looked at one another for a minute, searching for the point, and then one said with a yawn and a stretch: "Well, I guess it's bed time. Good night," and the party broke up, wondering.—New York Sun.

A HINT TO DECORATORS.

The Regulation of Light Has Much to Do with Artistic Results.

The regulation of the light from the windows has much to do with the effective results in the furnishings of a room, and is a matter of no small importance. One window is done in pale pink drapery silk or silk-like, the shades being lace-edged. Appliques of the lace may be sewn on in a pattern when the shades are required to be extra handsome. The window draper replaces the old-fashioned heavy curtains, and is made of satin embroidered with roses. The large lamp standing near has a gold, bronze and blue enamel stand, and large shade of Dresden figured muslin. Another window decoration is in golden brown velvet, very prettily cut out, and so simple that it can be made by any amateur. It is merely nailed on the wall without any under frame. The velvet is edged with gold braid, and may be left quite plain, or enriched with gold embroidery, as a little colored application relieves the somber effect of the velvet. In this instance the sash curtains are of plain blue silk, and the long ones of transparent yellow muslin, embroidered with colored thread. When silk is employed for blinds it should be edged with fringe, and muslin with lace. Short blinds may also be supplemented by an embroidered, thick curtain as protection against draughts. Of course, taste is necessary in the choice, and Brussels lace on a yellow foundation is especially beautiful.

DON'T WANT TO MARRY.

According to the registrar-general's most recent statistics, there appears to be a serious indisposition on the part of the male population of merry England to take unto themselves wives. During the months of January, February and March of the present year the lowest marriage rate in any quarter on record was observed, representing 10.6 per thousand. The nearest previous approach to this figure was in the early months of 1893 and the next in 1887.

HOT WEATHER DYSPEPSIA.

Thousands Suffer From It at This Season of the Year.

Hot weather dyspepsia may be recognized by the following symptoms: Depression of spirits, heaviness and pain in the stomach after meals, loss of flesh and appetite, no desire for food, bad taste in the mouth, especially in the morning, wind in stomach and bowels, irritable disposition, nervous weakness, weariness, costiveness, headache, palpitation, heartburn. It is a mistake to treat such troubles with "tonics," "blood purifiers," "cathartics," "pills," because the whole trouble is in the stomach. It is indigestion or dyspepsia and nothing else.

All these symptoms rapidly disappear when the stomach is relieved, strengthened, and cleansed by Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets. They should be taken after meals and a few carried in the pocket to be used whenever any pain or distress is felt in the stomach. They are prepared only for stomach troubles.

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets are endorsed by such physicians as Dr. Harlanson, Dr. Jenison, and Dr. Mayer, because they contain the natural digestive acids and fruit essences which when taken into the stomach cause the prompt digestion of the food before it has time to ferment and sour, which is the cause of the mischief.

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets are pleasant to take and unequalled for invalids, children and every person afflicted with imperfect digestion. It is safe to say they will cure any form of stomach trouble except cancer of the stomach.

Nearly all druggists sell Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets, full sized packages at 50 cents. A book on stomach troubles and thousands of testimonials sent free by addressing Stuart Co., Marshall, Mich.

Storekeepers and their clerks took an afternoon off today and went to the fair. The weather was just right and nobody had an excuse for staying away. Still the crowd was not what it should have been, the contingent from out of town being too light. Attractions were not lacking—there was a good program and the exhibits in most lines are numerous. Miss Isa Bates, Secretary Watt's assistant, has made a table of entries in the various departments which shows these figures.

Horses, 57; cattle, 69; sheep, 62; swine, 26; poultry, 99; vegetables, 208; grain and dairy, 91; horticultural, 90; culinary, 371; children's, 231; art, 283; domestic, 622; farm implements and machinery, 10; vehicles and harness, 14. Total, 2,233.

A half mile running race, a 2 1/2 trot, and a farmer's race were the events of the day. The wagon race did not fill.

Prizes for Janesville Men

There was a cavalcade of stock on the ground at ten o'clock and during the morning judges were busy. F. J. Hawley who judged horses gave James Little's team first prize as general purpose horses. F. E. Rice was second. M. D. Owen showed the best carriage team and Hadden, Scott & Mount got five first and six seconds. Robert Morgan took one first on Clydesdale stallions. F. E. Rice was first on his four year old roaster stallion. Frank Smith took three firsts and one second. The Fisher Stock Farm took one first and one second. J. L. Fisher had one first and three seconds.

Awards for Fine Cattle.

Frank Tratt of Whitewater judged the cattle. In Durhams James Little took three firsts and three seconds. Ed. Finn of Fort Atkinson, carried off six firsts and four seconds in Ayreshires. Holstein classes did not fill. A. Kolle won three firsts and two seconds on Jerseys and Alderneys. E. M. Fredendall took three firsts and William Riley a second. The Fisher Stock Farm took first on Polled Angus stock, and in natives and grades took first on three bulls and seconds on two cows. James Little took three firsts and three seconds and Robert Clark took one first. Two firsts for fat cattle went to the Fisher Stock farm, also firsts for the best bull and the best calf on exhibition. A. Kolle had the best cow and Ed. Finn the best dairy cow.

Cleland Strong on Sheep

Eli Proctor judged the sheep and gave Charles Cleland six firsts and four seconds on fine wool sheep. James Little got six firsts and five seconds for long wool. Walter Little got one first for long wool and J. C. Wixom got one second.

J. C. Wixom took one first on Oxford and John Little took one first and three seconds. Three firsts went to Robert Clark.

J. C. Robinson took everything in the Shropshire class—seven firsts and four seconds. Charles Davis won second prize on his two year old buck.

Charles Cleland carried off the sweepstakes award for the largest display of sheep. His exhibit was a very fine one of registered Merinos.

Raisers of High Grade Swine.

Swine were judged by L. W. Langworthy. M. W. Reed got five firsts on the large breed and two; second J. S. Dennett, three firsts and one second; and J. J. Jones, three firsts.

Six firsts on small breed pigs were given to Mrs. W. A. Good Poultry.

Saw Much Good Poultry.

When James McGowan walked through the poultry shed he gave Henry Babcock twenty firsts and fourteen seconds. R. M. Fredendall got one first. Mrs. J. C. Plum won thirteen firsts and five seconds. Ray Boynton got second on bantams and E. N. Fredendall got two seconds, one on Langshans and one on single comb Leghorns. The Fisher Stock Farm carried off a first and second, and James Little a first and second. Walter Helms Judged the Vegetables.

Walter Helms knows good vegetables whenever and wherever he sees them. He gave firsts on potatoes to R. Mead, Peter Smith, F. M. Collins and Henry Tarrant; seconds to R. Mead, Henry Tarrant and G. J. Kellogg. Mrs. W. A. Barnhart got first on turnips. Henry Tarrant took firsts on carrots, white onions and watermelons; second on beets. J. L. Fisher took firsts on parsnips and pole beans; seconds on celery, cabbage, lima beans, field peas, pumpkins and watermelons. Firsts went to the Fisher Stock Farm on salsify and celery; second on musk melons. R. Mead raised better cauliflower, bunch beans, musk melons and pumpkins than anybody else, and took seconds on red onions, white onions, peppers, yellow onions and watermelons. A first prize on cabbage and a second on egg plants went to John Porter. E. L. Benedict won first honors on his red onions, his yellow onions, his Lima beans, his pumpkins and his squash. He got second premium on parsnips. Mrs. J. H. McBride had the best tomatoes. E. Fredendall got first an egg plants and peppers. R. M. Fredendall was strong on field peas. Ray Fredendall had the biggest beet raised by a boy.

Competition Among Florists.

Two exhibits of flowers were entered for competition by professionals and Mrs. Clinton Wilcox and Mrs. J. A. Sutherland did the judging. Miss Isa Bates, Secretary Watt's assistant, has made a table of entries in the various departments which shows these figures.

Horses, 57; cattle, 69; sheep, 62; swine, 26; poultry, 99; vegetables, 208; grain and dairy, 91; horticultural, 90; culinary, 371; children's, 231; art, 283; domestic, 622; farm implements and machinery, 10; vehicles and harness, 14. Total, 2,233.

Tarrants' Apples in Favor.

Harry Tarant had the largest assortment of apples and the largest and best display of fruit in general. E. Inman took prizes on grapes.

J. M. Bostwick & Sons' Fine Show.

If every business house in town showed the enterprise exhibited by Janesville's hustling dry goods house, J. M. Bostwick & Sons, the Rock county fair would be a great show. It is no small task to arrange a display such as they have, and it reflects credit both on the firm and the fair. They show the finest fur garments ever displayed by any Janesville dealer, although the samples only show a few of the many styles they carry. Rich curtains, carpets and rugs add beauty to their booth, and a nobby line of cloth jackets are also shown.

A Center of Interest.

The excellence of the display is emphasized by its extent. A big portion of Domestic hall is required to accommodate the silks, satins and furs that have been entered. The Bostwick display has been the center of attraction for the ladies from Janesville and the surrounding towns ever since the fair opened, as many fall and winter novelties are there placed before the public for the first time.

The Henney Buggy Company Display.

The only display of carriages and sleighs at the fair this year is that of the Henney Buggy Co., under the supervision of F. A. Taylor. The exhibit includes driving buggies phaetons, surreys, road wagons and cutters; also a new style ball bearing rubber tire driving buggy, which is particularly well made and finished. The Henney Co., as the display shows are one of the best makers of vehicles in the country. Their work is guaranteed in every particular.

Results of Bicycle Races.

The bicycle races yesterday afternoon resulted as follows:

QUARTER MILE OPEN—Frank Cnare, Evansville, first prize, gold medal; Charles Hodson, Janesville, second prize, opera glasses; Charles Reynolds, Janesville, third prize, silk umbrella; A. K. Wheeler, Janesville; George Schoolcraft, Janesville. Time—31 seconds.

ONE MILE HANDICAP—Charles Reynolds, Janesville, 50 yards, first prize, stop watch; Charles Hodson, Janesville, 75 yards, second prize, gent's leather valise; F. K. Cnare, Evansville, scratch, third prize, sweater. Time—2:39.

CHAS. A. GARDNER HERE TONIGHT

Winsome Singing Comedian Will Appear In "The Prize Winner."

Winsome Charles A. Gardner, the most captivating of all singing comedians will appear at the Myers Grand tonight in his latest success "The Prize Winner." The play has everywhere been hailed by press and public with genuine delight. It is pure, but withal intensely interesting. It graphically depicts the struggle of a heroic German turner, whose heroism and manliness of purpose aid him in overcoming many obstacles. The part the "The Prize Winner," is of course portrayed by Mr. Gardner, and is said to be his most praiseworthy and to introduce those songs which have made him famous.

MR. SHACKLETON PLANS TO START THE MILL.

New Proprietor of the Hodson Plant Will Not Cater Much to Anything But Local Demand, and Will Start as Soon as Possible—City News Notes.

When J. E. Shackleton, the new proprietor of the Hodson mill, sets the wheels in motion, it will be to supply Janesville trade alone. Mr. Shackleton does not intend to strive for outside trade, arguing that there is business enough in Janesville to keep him running if he can handle it. The wheat flour sold by local merchants now comes from outside mills, and has ever since the Hodson mill started.

Mr. Hodson used to sell the larger part of his product here, but when he closed up the dealers had to begin to handle foreign goods. His mill was the only one in Rock county that was not located in Janesville and it will be on this idea that Mr. Shackleton will start up as soon as he can get water.

The Ford mill makes rye flour exclusively while the Crossett mill manufactures rye and buckwheat. Mr. Shackleton will make what repairs are necessary while waiting for the water to come up. He has the boiler ready for the use of steam but will not put in the engine this year.

IT MUST BE STOPPED.

GAMBLING SHOULD NOT BE TOLERATED BY BASEBALL MEN.

The Veteran Editor of the Sporting Life Leading a Crusade Against the Would-Be Defilers of Legitimate Sports.

HE following from the Philadelphia Record as to the dangerous increase of gambling on base-ball results is most timely:

"When the National league baseball moguls meet at the Fifth Avenue hotel in November there will probably be a serious discussion over an evil that is increasing daily, and in time may threaten the welfare of the game. Although the various clubs in the league formed a rule long ago strictly prohibiting betting on the grounds, it is an undeniable fact that open speculation on ball games prevails in several of the big towns, and the club officials, so far, have neglected to enforce the rules. At the Polo grounds last Monday a man walked up and down the aisles of the grand stand, waving a roll of bills and offering to bet on the Brooklyns. In a few minutes $25 of his money was covered in blocks of fives by New York followers. The officials in the New York club did not see the man, but when President Freedman was informed of the fact latter, he issued orders to stop all such proceedings in the future."

"Information comes from Pittsburgh that there is more and heavier betting among the grand stand patrons there than in any other league city. It is said that as much as $10,000 changes hands there on the result of the game. A man who has frequently witnessed games in Pittsburgh this season told the Record reporter recently that he saw $10,000 wagered against $8,000 that the Pittsburghs would win a certain game from the Baltimores, and that at the conclusion of the last inning the money was paid over on the grounds. He said that the Pittsburg officials never interfered with the betting, although they must have known of its existence. It is also said that the rule is violated in Baltimore, St. Louis, Chicago and Cincinnati. The Brooklyn club has always prevented open betting as much as possible. The Boston and Philadelphia clubs are also very particular about the enforcement of the rule."

While the above is probably exaggerated, there is no doubt that gambling upon base-ball is becoming altogether too frequent and heavy for the ultimate good of the game. A peculiar danger was pointed out by the Sporting Life last spring, viz.: that gambling on horse-racing having been practically suppressed by the strong arm of the law all over the country, there was a probability that the irresponsible speculative fraternity would find a vent for its passion or business in some direction, and that base-ball, owing to its great popularity, vast extent and peculiar uncertainty, would be seized upon as the most available sport for exploitation. That danger still exists, in fact, is greater now than ever, and it therefore behoves all directly interested in the game to not only keep a watchful eye upon its every phase, but to give no handle to its opponents or opportunity for the birds of prey to fasten themselves upon it. It is for this reason that Mr. Robinson's recognition of the gambling possibilities is to be keenly regretted. There never was a time that the game needed more careful handling and nursing than just now, whereas upon the surface it seems to need it least. A great many things have happened within the last two seasons which must cause the thoughtful and discerning lovers of the game much disquietude as to the future. The effect of past and recent mistakes is bound to be cumulative, so that when confidence in the integrity of the sport and of those who control it once begins to go it will go with a rush, and the bottom drop out of the game with a dull thud. It has taken years to place the game upon the high pinnacle it now occupies, but it may require only one season, one month, one week, or even one day to undo the work of two decades. Beware of the blighting, withering touch of the gambling cohorts.—Charles J. Richter, Editor of Sporting Life.

A League Mystery.

Pitcher Frank Wilson, who is now on the Cleveland pay-roll, is a mystery. When he gets into a game he is not effective, and yet good judges like O'Connor and Zimmer say that he ought to be the best pitcher on the Cleveland staff. He has nearly as much speed as Young, has better curves and a better drop ball. But he can't win games. It was so in Boston. All the Boston catchers said that Wilson was a world beater, but just the same the league hitters found him easy picking. No person can explain why this is so.—Cleveland Leader.

Chasing a Breeze.

They tell a good story about a Pawtuxet Valley (R. I.) young man who hired a horse and buggy one warm day recently to drive some distance from the village. When he returned the horse was bathed in perspiration and bore every evidence of having been hard driven. "It's a warm day," said the liverman. "Oh, yes," was the cool reply; "it was awfully warm, and I drove the horse just as hard as he could go in order to get a little breeze." He hires his horses at another stable now.

Training a Cavalry Ox.

A curious story comes from Berlin. A lieutenant of an uhlans regiment made a bet about six months ago that he would train a young ox within six months so that it would obey the word of command like a cavalry horse. The trial took place a few days ago on the drill ground of the uhlans barracks in the Invalidenstrasse. It seemed at first as though the officer would win his bet. The ox trotted, galloped right, galloped left, and did everything perfectly till it came to the vaulting. In this the animal failed, and the officer lost his bet. He was congratulated, however, on his perseverance and success in training so unpromising an animal.
